10. TFDW

The Final Death Wish

The Final Death Wish is a level based shoot-em-up that has a lot going for it, with a lot of enemy types, but it gets beaten out in gameplay.

HOMEAIDENZACH[ZACH'S REVIEW
PLAYLIST](#)

5. S&S

Swords and Souls

Its turn-based with some great combat, beautiful visuals, and really fun minigames, but the game is mostly just minigames.

AIDEN'S REVIEW PLAYLIST

1. Club Penguin

MMO Game where you are able to live your life as a penguin, raising pets called puffles and owning your own igloo.

HOMEAIDENZACHZACH'S REVIEW PLAYLIST

9. Age of War 2

One of the best Attrition Warfare games that I've played, its got pretty good balance, but considering the gameplay is nearly static its low on the list.

HOMEAIDENZACHAIDEN'S REVIEW PLAYLIST

2. Fireboy and Watergirl

A puzzle platforming game where the gimmick is that you control one character with "wasd" and the other character with the arrow keys.

8.FPA

Fancy Pants Adventure

Genuinely the best Platformer out of all Flash Games. Super simple looking and played fantastically. Not much else going on though.

7.Learn 2 Fly

Give a penguin a hang-glider and back him with billions of dollars of R&D funding and you get this game. Very Repetitive, but fun.

2. Sonny

Fully voice acted, Zombie Turn Based RPG. Very fun and the harder difficulties are genuinely difficult.

6.Raze 2

Take Quake, make it Halo, and then make it a 2D Action Platformer. Same issue as a lot of these, which is repetition.

Whack Your Computer

10. Whack your_

A flash series where you as the player click on items in the room to whack whatever the title is. (Ex, boss, computer etc.) It can get violent but each option is more ridiculous than the last which makes it more fun.
